NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The World's Washington special says. He said he should have no deficiency in the regular appropriations, but he might fall short in his contingent fund He would urge upon congress the necessity of appropriating money to protect and save the immense amount of government property under control of the navy department which is now going to decay for the want of care The secretary says he is having made an inventory of all property of the government under the charge of the navy department, including real estate, houses, yards docks, buildings, machinery, scraps material, supplies and property of every kind This he will send to congress with his report and urge the importance and necessity of giving him money to prevent the destruction of this immense property The value of all such property, he said, certainly could not be less than $100,000,000, and it would probably reach $150,000,000 The vessels alone were worth $50,000 000, and cost more The ones in Philadelphia last week had decayed a shiphouse worth $100 000 and dykes that it would require $30 000 to repair There he had ordered repaired at once He said that if congress had given the money required this damage would not have occurred Congress was not disposed to give anything to prevent the destruction of property He said his estimates for the ordinary expenses of the navy would be the same as the appropriations made at the last session of congress The Lancaster, now at Portsmouth N H one of the ships he should have in commission before the end of three months Has been repaired not very long ago at Mare Island, Cal and interior timber had been put in with good old live oak that had been cut 7 years Has Mare Island timber so rotten that it could be crushed in the hand

No Greenbackery for Three Years.

[Richmond (Va) Dispatch Dem]

The congress now elected will not assemble until December, 1879 and when it assembles it will be impossible for it to pass any measure that will make any great change in the financial system of the nation Such a thing as the authorization of such an amount of paper money as will affect its value injuriously is entirely out of the question The votes cannot be had in congress for any such vicious and unhonest measure as will bring that calamitous result upon the country It the votes could be obtained and such a measure could get through congress, the president would assuredly veto it But the president will never have to veto that monstrous affair It will never be passed The Democratic party alone would kill it dead—dead The congress will represent public opinion on this subject So there will not be any such thing as an unreasonable issue of paper money We are safe for three years from any wild disturbance We shall have a noise—nothing more The greenback dog will be chained and his bark will not be regarded

"No More of Tilden in the South"

[From the Charleston News and Courier (Dem)]

This not what one might style exalting or improving political work and as Mr Tilden is not a possibility in Democratic politics hereafter there is no harm in free speaking Mr Tilden bungled and flunked alternately He could have won by buying an honest decision—and didn't do it He could have won by a fight—and didn't even make a show of it The Ames and Cipher vigorously supported Mr Tilden for the Democratic nomination for president It was the best thing to do perhaps but it leaves a bad taste in the mouth although on the foremost question of the times pay or repudiate Mr Tilden is far ahead of a fourth and a poor one No more of Tilden in the south, or of anybody like him!

The Story of the Miles Case

SALT LAKE Oct 30—In the Miles examination this morning John Taylor president of the Mormon church appeared as a witness and avowed himself a polygamist and that he had children and grandchildren by polygamous marriages that Miles came to him for advice The story was as follows Miles knew Miss Owens in England When young he went to sea as a sailor and in Australia met a Mormon missionary and became a member of the church and went to St George Utah Previous to this he had written to Miss Owens offering marriage and claimed that he had received no reply and understood that she had accepted him and that he had not received her letter While at St George Utah he had marriage engagements with two young women sisters Miles and the two young women from St George came to Salt Lake and met Miss Owens from England and asked his (Taylor's) advice which as given, was that if the three marriages were performed they must be in the order of the ages of the young women That Miss Owens was not the eldest That Miss Owens left aggrieved with this arrangement But that it was insisted upon as a rule of the church Other testimony shows that the elder Miss Spencer and Miss Owens were introduced and acknowledged afterwards as the wife of Miles but that the younger Spencer sister backed out of the engagement The investigation is still in progress The grand jury which meets early in November will be composed of about an equal number of Mormons and Gentiles

This afternoon Miss Louie was examined in the Miles case She was present at a reception at the house of Angus Cannon on Thursday evening The defendant introduced to her Emily Spencer as his wife The fact of plural marriage was generally understood by the company This witness it is said has been ordered from her former home by her brother for giving evidence in the case and has taken refuge with a Gentile family Miss Owen the second wife was examined and confirmed John Taylor as to instructions regarding the order of marriages The first and second wives had a difficulty that evening during the wedding assemblage and Miss Owen slapped the face of the first wife The mutual husband interfered She threatened to slap his face also and was prevented by bystanders She then left the house, but was forcibly brought back by the defendant and others This girl Miss Owen or the second wife is an intelligent and fine looking English girl She had no place to go after the trial was commenced and was given a home by the U S marshal It is proposed to call the attention of the British minister to her case hoping he will interest himself in bringing to justice those who have so brutally outraged her It is not believed that the better class of Mormons sympathize with the defendant in this case as brutality and indecency have been too strongly exhibited The case is continued

TILDEN'S AVARICE

[From the Chicago Tribune]

The striking features of the Tilden cipher correspondence are two It shows (1 that Tilden never gives his entire confidence to anybody but relies solely upon his own resources holding the decision of every question in his own hands, even if the negotiation is at a distance of thousands of miles (2) that the long habit of a lifetime, of driving a sharp bargain of screwing the last cent out of a trade of forcing an opponent to the wall of availing himself of the laws delays thereby consigning an antagonist to despair—that this habit has so impressed itself upon his character as to render him penurious miserly and grasping to the point of overreaching himself

These qualities of Mr Tilden's mind were shown in the negotiations for the purchase of an electoral vote in Oregon The sum of money required was small—only a few thousand dollars—but Tilden took the negotiation into his own hands The dispatches were sent by Pelton from Tilden's house An agent was dispatched from California but Tilden refused to trust him He haggled about the price and withheld the purchase money till the last possible moment In the Florida affair these ingrained peculiarities of the great conspirator's mind were still more conspicuously displayed One agent demanded $200 000 and that agent was Manton Marble But previous to the receipt of Marble's dispatch one had been received from another agent offering to compromise the job for $50 000 Immediately the lifelong habit of saving came into play Tilden possessed millions was goaded forward by a boundless ambition was restrained by no conscientious scruples still the temptation to drive the sharpest possible bargain should red every other consideration aside and imperiously asserted its ascendency in the old man's mind The coveted vote was offered for $200 000, and behind the vote the door of the White House stood invitingly open What would not Mr Tilden give to possess his right of entrance? For the privilege of crossing its threshold he had already bartered everything that honorable men hold dear The privilege was offered for $200 000 but fatal mistake of the agents, it was also offered for $90 000!

Doubtless Mr. Tilden seized a pen with the view of making assurances doubly sure by writing "yes to Marble's dispatch, but his miserly heart revolted at the thought of paying $200 000 for a thing that was offered for one fourth of that sum and the pen dropped from his nerveless grasp! Poor old man! How he must have paced the floor and fought with the darling weakness of his sordid soul avarice There was nothing of the feeling which restrains. Macbeth,—that feeling which "let I dare not wait upon I would" He had not only resolved to do the desperate deed—defraud a whole people of their joint suffrage—but he went about the business cheerfully, studying the cipher for the otherwise innocent words that through the jugglery of the key, were twisted to mean theft robbery, perjury and bribery But when the two dispatches lay before him the one offering dominion and power for $200 000 and the other for $90 000 the supreme mental struggle of Tilden's life commenced Ambition pleaded eloquently for the higher sum The cabinet to be formed beckoned him from the minor recesses of the executive mansion grave and reverend seniors stood in the waiting room craving audience for eight ambassadors crowded around him eager to offer the congratulations of all the governments of the world But the master passion of his existence—that passion which he had nurtured and fostered until it stood sentinel over all his desires—the grand passion of avarice prompted this insinuating inquiry Why waste $150 000? This bare suggestion of prudence emanating from the prime minister of his brain banished for the moment all other thoughts all his intellectual forces fell into line under the gold captain avarice and Tilden, the railway wreck making motives maker sent to Marble the fatal dispatch I propose one too high Then followed a series of lying dispatches professing confidence in everybody whereas in fact Tilden had no confidence in anybody else and his every action manifested haste But the precious opportunity had passed away forever The agents were dismissed at full pay for many days They had offered him the presidency for $200 000 Think of it four years in the white house for $50 000 to the man who possessed millions wherewith to buy and who had expressed a desire to purchase Marble had formed a false conception of Tilden's character He regarded him as a commercial statesman but on him to be in the checks of a brain drawn by barbarous It was a case of the ruling passion strong in death No compunctions of conscience restrained Tilden from opening negotiation for the purchase of the presidency but the penurious habits of a lifetime saved the country from the disgrace of their consummation

PERSONAL AND GENERAL

The Charleston (S C) News Dem thus closes an article on the cipher dispatches "No more of Tilden in the south or of anybody like him

Oh you see I can't afford to turn out such work the late John Penn the great English engineer would say when asked the secret of his success

Professor Asa Gray's election to a corresponding membership to the French Academy was carried by thirty five votes cast for him against five for Mr Charles Darwin

Bill Longley the Texas outlaw who killed thirty two persons before reaching the gallows was a devoted reader of tracts and opposed to capital punishment or crime

Robert Collier keeps in his study at Chicago the anvil upon which he worked in England when a youth It was bought in his native shop by a Chicagoan and presented to Mr Collier

Mrs Bonanza Mackey has bought a house at Nice where she proposes to spend the winter The furniture for the house is now being made in Paris The order for it was given as usual—carte blanche

Senator Blaine put it sharply when he said The question is not whether the people of the United States shall go forward to resumption but whether having unjustly reached specie payments they will by positive legislation go backward and adopt irredeemable paper currency

A Dollar Worth Three Cents

From the Boston Herald

Some of the blessings of fiat money are enjoyed by the people of Buenos Ayres There is a six column paper called the Buenos Ayres Herald of which the subscription price is put at the low rate of thirty dollars a month in paper currency that is about a dollar a number The clothing house of Grand & Hart Marten advertises suits of clothing for $700 Another house offers to sell children's suits at prices ranging from $60 upwards and still another advertises a new line of boiled cravats at $100 each It seems from the market reports of this journal that a gold dollar at that time was worth $31 50 in paper

The Postal Service.

Washington Special Oct 30

The official estimates required for the postal service for the next fiscal year aggregate $36 951 900 It is now estimated that the total postal revenues will fall short of supplying this sum by $5 907 576 The amount appropriated for the current fiscal year is $33,226 373 of which $4 222 574 comes from the general treasury It is estimated therefore that $1 650 031 more than this year's appropriation from the treasury will be required for the next fiscal year

The Northern Pacific.

From the Louisville Courier Journal

The Northern Pacific railroad wants a renewal of its grants and franchises which will shortly expire The road which is constructed from Duluth to Bismarck gives promise of a handsome business The extension of the line to the Pacific is a necessity and we hope there will be no difficulty about passing the bill renewing the charter Huntington and Gould oppose the road for the same reason that they oppose the Texas Pacific

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 31, 1878.

PROBABILITY OF WAR.

It is apparent that the treaty of Berlin settled nothing. Sagacious observers, indeed, have not been obliged to wait till now to discover the fact. To those who looked below the surface of the shallow diplomacy through which the ministerial organs of England claimed a great victory, it was manifest that the result which was paraded as a glorious and enduring peace was a hollow truce. It cannot have missed the notice of any reader whose attention keeps pace with the progress of events that for weeks past affairs have been obviously tending toward renewal of the war. Though some questions creating additional complications have arisen since the Berlin treaty was signed, yet the most serious part of the trouble arises out of the same old controversy. The affair of Afghanistan serves to bring into prominence another side of the growing irrepressible conflict between Russia and Britain; but the principal danger arises from disagreement between the czar and the porte over old questions, the same which have been substantially the basis of all the wars between Muscovite and Turk. Gortschakoff finds no end of instances in which Turkey has failed to fulfill her engagements. In consequence Russia has not only stopped the return of her troops from Turkey, but has even put large forces in motion toward the south, with a view of gaining a still firmer footing on Turkish soil. The tone of the English press shows that the gravity of the situation is well understood in that country, while the utterances of the Russian press, which almost or altogether are under direction of the government, point equally to the fact that Russia is preparing to accept the struggle which her conduct invites. The Russian cabinet regards the treaty of Berlin as merely supplementary to the treaty of San Stefano, which was concluded separately with Turkey before the convention at Berlin was announced. In other words, Russia proceeds on the assumption that she is not bound by the treaty of Berlin except in so far as Turkey adheres to the terms of both treaties,—a view to which England will hardly be willing to assent. It is observed that Russia has caused surprise and apprehension by her dextrous method of making the San Stefano treaty operative on little points which the provisions of the Berlin understanding overlooked, or concerning which it was not sufficiently explicit. Where the Berlin treaty fails to clearly deny, that of San Stefano comes in to affirm. Through one of these loop-holes which Beaconsfield and Salisbury failed to close up, Russia now holds a narrow strip of territory east of Eastern Roumelia, occupied in force by General Todleben and a permanent menace to Constantinople. The Berlin treaty seems to have served the purpose of securing a temporary halt and general review of the situation, preparatory to a more leisurely renewal of the squeezing process. It is evident that as matters now stand, Russia believes she holds the advantage and means to press it. There is every probability of speedy war; and should it occur it is difficult now to see how England could avoid being a participant. In fact Russia's course is looked upon as a sort of challenge to England, and both countries seem to recognize the approach of the inevitable struggle.

FOR HONEST MONEY.

The Republican party at last has got fairly on the platform of honest money, and it now remains to be seen whether the Democratic party will do the same. It cannot now; but will it by 1880? This is the question it must be prepared to meet. It must then accept without equivocation some position on this subject. So far, it has been playing fast and loose with the fiat idea to a greater extent than the Republicans have done; but in some of the states, as New York and Massachusetts, it has generally held to sound financial principles. Recently the Democratic state committee of New York issued a stirring address in which strong ground was taken for honest money. Referring to Ohio, it had the courage to say that the election there had just been lost "by pandering to an idea hostile to the welfare of the people." The committee also declared that the money which the country must have is money "based on substance rather than on promises to pay, and in labor performed and labor which may be performed, rather than on theory, idleness, expectation, and the capacity of a government or party printing machine." This squarely traverses the western Democratic idea of money, and it remains to be seen how the party will find means to harmonize the follies of flatism with these clearly stated principles. It is going to be more difficult to dodge or straddle this question in future than it has in the past. The aggressive earnestness of the advocates of greenback quackery will have to be met by an equally earnest statement of sound principles; and the party which fails to do this ought to have no chance whatever of success in the next national contest. But meanwhile it may be useful to the fiat Democrats of the country to study these outspoken and emphatic utterances of their party leaders in New York.

ENGLISH WHEAT.

An interesting statement is made showing how prices affect the English wheat growers. The London Farmer says: "For many years it has been said that wheat at 42 per quarter is as good as gold. But what assurance is there that it will remain so? It is true that much reduction on that price seems impossible either for English or for foreign grain, but then 40s. is a price beneath which the farmer certainly cannot sell at other than a loss. Prices now are at 40s. to 45s. for English, for American red, for Saxonska, and for Indian wheat. What would these prices be had France a good harvest instead of a bad one? Probably 35s. to 40s. instead of 40s. to 45s. per quarter. In other words, the English farmer's position, instead of being one of little or no profit, would be one of more or less serious loss."

The Pacific Rural Press remarks that it hence appears that the line of demarcation between profit and loss in English wheat growing is at 38s. per quarter. This is equal to $2 10 per cental according to our weights and money. Wheat ruling at present prices in our Pacific states is crowding pretty close to the cost of production, although there is probably a small margin of profit in many cases. The profit is, however, so small that it would not take much of a decline to change from profit to loss, as in the case of England at $2 10 per cental.

The other day THE OREGONIAN stated that it is not probable that a law which prohibits employment of Chinese on public works in this state will stand the tests to which it is likely to be submitted. The Salem Record asks, "Why not? Give us a reason why the people of Oregon cannot enforce this law as well as any other." We say it is probable the law will fail because it seems to contravene the powers of congress and the treaties with China. Congress has sole power to regulate commerce. Intercourse is necessary to commerce; and as a state has no power to lay a special or restrictive tax upon any class of foreigners who come to our country, neither, it would seem, has a state a right to prohibit such persons from engaging in any lawful occupation within its limits. If a state can shut them out from any one class of occupations it can shut them out from all; and thus a state could nullify an important part of the powers conferred on congress by the constitution of the United States. If any class of foreigners are prohibited from employment or business in a state they are virtually prohibited from residence, and therefore from commerce, since residence is an inseparable part of commercial intercourse. The decisions of the United States courts, reaching back through a very long period, show that this will not be allowed. Judging therefore from the principles heretofore laid down by the courts and steadily adhered to, THE OREGONIAN thinks it probable that this law will not stand the tests to which it is likely to be subjected.

By the storm which passed over Philadelphia last Thursday 384 dwellings and stores were unroofed and otherwise injured. Many church and school buildings were badly damaged, several of them to the amount of $40,000 or $50,000 each. Many of the tallest spires in the city were overthrown. The total loss in Philadelphia was perhaps $2,000,000; and the towns and country surrounding the city suffered in almost equal proportion. Many vessels were wrecked on Delaware river and Chesapeake bay, and a large number of persons were lost.

The growth of Montana is rapid. Lewis and Clarke county returns this year assessable property to the amount of $2,892,935. In 1877 it was $2,787,540, showing an increase during the year of $105,395. While Deer Lodge county assessments show a larger increase in property—$371,352—Lewis and Clarke county still leads $551,667 on the total assessment. Deer Lodge county will crowd $3,000,000 close next year.

CALIFORNIA SILK

Manufacturing Company,

ROBERT R. YATES, Agent,

585 Market st., cor. Second, San Francisco.

MESSRS WM. MACDONALD & CO HAVING retired from the Sales Agency of this Company, the business will hereafter be conducted in the name of the CALIFORNIA SILK MANUFACTURING COMPANY, on the same premises as above named, Mr. ROBERT R. YATES, late with Messrs. Murphy, Grant & Co., will act as Agent

New Machinery has been added to our factory and is at present on sale it has been and will be very much enlarged.

Our Standard Goods are now ranked fully equal to the best goods made in the United States, and are far superior to the average imported. We also make the cheaper grades to meet the demand for such goods.

Having a Factory at South San Francisco always at work, and unlimited facilities, we are able to keep our stock in store always fully assorted, and can furnish any silk required at short notice, from stock or made to order. This gives us great advantage over importers in supplying customers with Machine Twist, Embroidery, Fringe, Trass and Sewing Silks. Dealers buying of us need to carry but small stocks, thus saving interest and shop wear on goods.

We absolutely Guarantee our Standard Goods to be equal to the best and most celebrated silks made, and the general favor with which they are now regarded by consumers and dealers, selling as we do to nearly the entire trade, proves our assertion to be true, and should any goods be found not as guaranteed we will willingly take them back.

Attention is drawn to the fact that besides our regular standard goods, we have made to meet a demand for cheap grades, a second quality which is sometimes mistaken for the former. We shall in future use different brands for the lower qualities, though for some time may elapse before a complete substitution of names can be made. Lists of our products with prices can be obtained by mail.

Our manufacturing business has been built up with much labor and sacrifice during the last seven years, and after overcoming great vicissitudes, has achieved complete success as a California Industry.

Employing as we do nearly One Hundred American and European Women and Girls,

Giving the best of silks made at the lowest prices for corresponding grades, and affording better facilities in stock variety for selection than any other Silk Agency, we feel that we are entitled to the patronage and preference of all who desire to AID HOME INDUSTRY.

CITY.

STORE OR MURDER WHICH — This city a Chinaman was found dead in the rear portion of the Joss house on Second street Coroner Cooke was notified and requested to hold the defunct Celestial When Mr Cooke came to take the measure of the dead China man he discovered a line of discoloration around his neck, just as if death had been produced by strangulation Mr Cooke's suspicions were aroused and he proceeded to question a number of the Celestials as to the manner in which their countryman had met his death Those who were interrogated stated that the Chinaman had committed suicide by hanging as a reason that he had been in ill health for some time, and became wearied with life Some of the Chinamen even took the coroner to the rear of the Joss house and showed him where the Celestial had shuffled off this "mortal coil" Mr Cooke made a cursory examination of the premises, but could find nothing to confirm or disprove the statement of the Chinamen He made a partial investigation of the matter but could find out nothing definite or satisfactory Not desiring to put the county to any unnecessary expense when no satisfactory result could be arrived at, Mr Cooke concluded to bury the Celestial without holding an inquest Accordingly he proceeded to have the defunct Celestial Subsequently information was made into the matter and new facts coming to light Mr Cooke resolved to make a careful examination of the affair Yesterday morning he caused the remains to be exhumed and conveyed to the morgue Upon examination it was discovered that the deceased had been murdered, as marks of strangulation by violence were plainly visible on the neck and throat The Chinese secret court is supposed to have come to or authorized the murder Yesterday morning a post mortem examination was held by Dr Strong, assisted by a young medical student These gentlemen found indisputable evidence that the Chinaman came to his death by hanging, the marks plainly indicating the fact, and judging from all the circumstances it was no suicide, but murder, as the manner in which the rope was placed shows The imprint of the knot is plainly and convincingly apparent upon the back of the neck It was impossible to make a very thorough examination of the body owing to the advanced stage of decomposition and the fact that deceased was suffering at the time of his death from a bane some disease, in all probability leprosy judging from the appearance of the remains Inquest a coroner's jury is empaneled and examination being made The evidence thus collected implicates a number of Chinamen and 12 have been arrested Coroner Cooke is determined to sift this mysterious affair thoroughly

ACCIDENT —A little daughter of Mr Clark, who resides on Morrison street, was bitten in a most shocking manner last Sunday by a dog The little girl was playing with the animal when without any apparent cause in the world it turned on the child and bit her badly The dog seized the child by the face and mutilated the cheeks chin and nose shockingly The little girl screamed lustily, but before any one could interfere, the dog had succeeded in injuring her The owner was called immediately and did everything in his power to alleviate the pain of the little sufferer The child will probably be dreadfully disfigured The animal gave evidences of a kind and affectionate disposition, and what caused it to make such a fierce and unprovoked attack on the little girl cannot be imagined

FIRE AT WOODBURN —Tuesday morning the dwelling house and stock of goods belonging to Mr D Morris, of Woodburn station was entirely destroyed by fire About 1 o clock the people of that quiet little hamlet were aroused from their slumber by a very loud report, not unlike the discharge of a cannon Quickly repairing to the place from whence the noise proceeded, they discovered Mr Morris' store wrapped in flames All efforts to save the building or its contents were unavailing Everything was consumed Loss will reach $2 000 ; insurance, $1 000 Origin of fire unknown

CHURCH CONVENTION.—To-day a convention will assemble at Oregon City consisting of delegates from the various Baptist churches of Oregon, Washington Territory and British Columbia The Baptist church of Portland will be represented by Rev A S Hayden, Rev J A Staden, Pastor N W Gar rison, Rev J Pearcey Mrs. R Williams, Miss Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell

DESERT STAMPS —Jacob Mader of Oregon City has been arrested, charged with stamping barrels with fraudulent stamps The case will be examined before U S Commissioner Lamson this morning at 10 o'clock.

IT is stated that W B Laswell late Assistant Attorney of Grant county has graduated from the Portland Academy of Medicine a few years ago, has lately fallen heir to a fortune by the death of a rich uncle Lucky boy

IN JAIL.—Officer Hudson arrived from Salem last evening from Los Angeles, with Simpson, the murderer, in charge The latter was taken to the county jail, where he will be safely confined.

TWO SCOUNDRELS CAUGHT

In the San Francisco Chronicle of the 25th the following paragraph appears

On the down trip of the steamer Great Republic from Portland the till of the bar-room was forced open and $60 in coin abstracted The theft was traced to two suspicious characters who were on board and they were arrested and placed in irons under charge of one of the sailors Their keeper thinking them secure left them for a moment, and when he returned them, hiding in one of the adjoining rooms and the sailor in endeavoring to secure them was fired upon, the ball ex fortunately missing him The two thieves then engaged with the sailor and during the struggle the wretches got the pistol from their hands and beat them both into subjection On the arrival of the vessel the two scoundrels were given into custody and taken to the city prison by Officer Ryan There they gave their names as C D Robertson and J Ferguson and it is only since Hughes, the latter is said to be a notorious lawbreaker, having been implicated with Thomas Wallace and others in numerous burglaries that the police have learned their true identity

FIRE —Early on last Sunday morning the residence of C J Davis on Lost street some time ago R Iverson has been charged with carrying burglarious tools and E Tyrrson was registered in the small book as such further investigation into the matter

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATER —There was present last evening a good audience at New Market theater Boucicault's Irish drama Colleen Bawn was rendered Mrs Siddons appearing as Fily O Connor Her characterization of the part may with truth be said to have been negatively good with one special brilliancy We cannot refrain from expressing regrets that a lady of such acknowledged artistic ability as Mrs Siddons, should attempt to assume a character to which she is so ill adapted Truth compels us to say that the character of Fily O Connor is too trivial and child like for one who deservedly occupies such a prominent position in the histrionic profession as well as her dramatic methods and mannerisms The lady dressed the part quite correctly and as to Hibernian accent and all the necessary details of stage business was measurably above criticism but she was very noticeably deficient in that degree of artlessness and girlish simplicity so essential to the character Notwithstanding these unavoidable drawbacks the lady acquitted herself quite creditably and, judging from the hearty plaudits bestowed much to the satisfaction of the audience The support was unusually efficient The following is the distribution of characters Miss Walters Mrs Cregan Sutherland Hardcastle Cregan Howard Kyle Daly Mrs Wade Anne Chute Mr Ward Myles Nacopoleon Mr Robinson Father Tom Mr White Corrigan Mr Wade Danny Man Mrs Treanore Sheelah

To night Mrs Siddons will appear for the last time in Portland On this occasion the lady will be tendered a complimentary benefit Very attractive programme will be rendered The performance will commence with the beautiful play from the Danish of Hendrik Ibsen in which Mrs Siddons will personate Iolanthe the blind princess supported by the full company Following this will be the ever popular comedy of Our Boys Mary Melrose will be personated by the beneficiary in which she will be supported by the legitimate company

This will positively be the last opportunity afforded the theater going public of Portland of seeing this highly gifted artist They will not be slow to improve the chance

RIVERSIDE RACES.

The trotting match between the two well known horses, Mystery and Lumox at the White House yesterday afternoon for a purse of $500 drew quite a crowd The latter horse having beaten Mystery on Monday there was a feeling of uncertainty that made pool selling a little slow but nevertheless quite a sum of money changed hands on the result Mystery came to the track evidently feeling better than on the previous day and being driven by Landsey who knows the sorrel like a book he found a good many backers And upon the first heat he increased the confidence in his ability to win the race and winning the heat in 2 48 Mystery became the favorite Lumox trotted well on the second heat and tried hard to win it but failed again and after that found but few backers On the third heat Mystery again came to the front and footing it hard and rapidly came under the wire in 2 45 winner of the heat and race

The wheat market is excited and the views of holders and buyers are widely apart. Nothing is doing in consequence. The rate offered to day is higher by a few cents per cental than on any day for some weeks past. Almost any amount could have been sold readily at $1 57½, and an extra fine full cargo would easily have brought $1 60 or more. Receipts continue dull. News received from Europe during the past three or four days, all of which has been published in THE OREGONIAN, show a complication of causes in Europe which may result in a general war. This, of course, would greatly affect our market.

[illegible] M. [illegible] ENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and [illegible] Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE

over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them: they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN; the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.

Office, 43 First street, over McCornick's Franklin Bookstore.
